

A long time ago a little red hen lived alone in a big forest. She lived in a fine home. It was made of fine brick. Inside her home, Little Red Hen had a stove, a chair, a table, and a small bed. There was a green quilt on the bed. Little Red Hen had made the quilt herself. The Little home was fit for a queen. It had a yard and a garden. She spent much of her time in the garden weeding it. Little Red Hen worked inside her home, too, cleaning it and fixing things to eat.
