Course Learning Resources:

1. Please review physical examination techniques in your Oral Med 517 syllabus (First year, Spring quarter 2006).

2. You can get the information about impact of medical conditions from books such as “Dental Care of the Medically Compromised Patient” by Little and Falace. This book is available in the library. It will be a recommended book during your Winter 2007 General Medicine course (Oral Med 526). You can also ask the third or fourth year student you work with during your clinical session.

3. You can get the information about impact of medical conditions and/or medications from a drug reference book such as Drug Information Handbook for Dentistry by Lexi-comp Inc. which is available in the ER clinic. Others are available for purchase in the South Campus Bookstore. It is really recommended to own one for your use in management of your patients. Many upperclassmen have drug references they have purchased for their own use that they may lend you for now. Also, drug information is also available on the Healthlinks Provider Website (http://healthlinks.washington.edu/hsl/) that you can access as a UW student in the HSL library. Select the “care provider” tab along the top, then Micromedex database. Type in the name of your drug and find it’s side effects. List those that may be something affecting dental health or dental care delivery.
